William Chrisman Esq., is preparing to erect a new house on Rock street.

Thomas Gunton is building three new dwelling houses.

The old coal house, pipe, fence and other rubbish sold at the Court House on Saturday brought in about twenty dollars.

The Easter music was repeated at the Presbyterian church last Sunday. A large congregation was in attendance.

Tuesday, was what might be termed a perfect day. There was not a cloud to be seen during nearly the whole day.

The Globe Minstrel Co. will give an entertainment in the Catawissa Opera House on Saturday evening, 30th.

The dwelling house of Rev. P. F. Eyer on the rear of his lot near corner of Main and West street, is nearly completed.

Resolutions of condolence were passed by the Junior class of Yale Divinity School on the affliction of their class-mate, Paul Tustin, in the death of his father.

Mrs Tustin and family desire to express their thanks to the friends and people of Bloomsburg for the kind assistance and sympathy offered them in their recent bereavement.

We announce this week in another column the name of G. W. Sterner of Bloomsburg as candidate for Representative for the north side of the river. Mr. Sterner believes in being the early bird.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kunkel of Brooklyn visited their parents Mr. and Mrs. Turnbach Sunday last. Mr. Kunkel returned home Monday, but his wife will remain with her parents for a short time.

Misses Ella Fox, Beth and Maude Runyon went down to the Danville Asylum last Friday night and entertained the inmates with a musical program. They were late in getting there by reason of taking the wrong road. The patients greatly enjoyed the treat.

George Unangst has been a great sufferer with a form of neuralgia for the past six weeks. He has been confined to the house most of the time, only venturing out a little during the few warm days the past week.

The policemen appeared in their new uniforms on Saturday night, and looked well. Of course everybody had something to say to them, and as officer Thomas said, "it made a fellow feel funny." But they will soon get used to it. Uniformed officers are the right thing.

The sale of the Bloomsburg Bazar Co., at the Exchange stables last Saturday was well attended and realized good prices. A sale will take place every two weeks. Any one having horses, cattle, wagons or any other personal property to dispose of should consult Guy Jacoby, Secretary, or J. S. Williams, auctioneer.

A. W. M'Henry, the popular Benton butcher, was in town on Monday. He has just put in a large new refrigerator, and can keep meat pure and sweet in the hottest weather. The refrigerator was made by T. H. Edgar of Stillwater. Mr. M'Henry is a reliable man and his customers can depend on getting the best in his line which the market afford.

The editor who is afraid to speak out on a public question, lest some subscriber will stop his paper, will never secure a very large circulation or an extensive influence. The editor who expects to please everybody will wind up his career by pleasing nobody. The first lesson of independence for the newspaper man is to keep his paper as nearly right as possible without fear of the subscriber who stops his paper.

It is not what its proprietors say, but what Hood's Sarsaprilla does, that makes it sell, and wins the confidence of the people.

Some of our early farmers have potatoes planted already for two weeks but the cold weather has retarded their growth.

ANNIE WALDEN'S WICKED LIFE.

A CAREER OF EVIL BEGUN IN PHILADELPHIA.

FORMERLY A COLUMBIA COUNTY GIRL.

A woman named Annie Graham was last week convicted of murder in the second degree in New York, and has been sentenced to imprisonment for life. The Philadelphia Times of Monday contains the following:

The girl murderess, Annie Walden, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment, and whom the prosecutor in the case styled "the handsomest women who has ever been arraigned before the New York bar, and the wickedest as well by all odds," started on her career of evil in this city and married the man whom she murdered in Camden. If her story is true she was born at Carlisle and went to school there, though doubt is cast upon this part of her story.

According to her own statement she was ruined in this city by a man named James Stewart when she was 17 years old, her name being Annie Graham. From that time her life was a fast one, and she was a well-known frequenter of the dives around Ninth and Vine streets in the days before Stokley's anti-dive crusade. She had then the ready tongue which still distinguishes her, and her ready wit and not least of all her beauty made her a great favorite with dive visitors. One of her resorts was the place kept by Joe Burns, on Vine street, between Eighth and Ninth.

Burns was in his own way as famous a character as Annie has become, being one of a notorious trio of brothers, Pete Burns, a famous bond thief, who died in an Italian prison, and John Burns, now of the New York crooked fraternity, being the other two.

Quaker City sin, however, became too slow for this fast maiden, and she went to New York. It was in Joe Burns' place that the incident occured which helped fix in her mind the conviction as to the slowness of Philadelphia wickedness. "It's too dead slow there. They're all thinking of joining the church." The cause of this remark was that one night as she sat in the big room back of the bar room in Burns' dive two of her former companions who had cast in their lot with the Salvation Army came in and asked her to go with them.

"If I was as homely as you two are I'd join the Salvation Army, too. I suppose you were broke and wanted something to eat." This and enough more was said to convince the Salvation lasses that Annie was a hopeless case, and they left her to go her own way.

In New York she led a life for which fast is a mild sort of description.

She was passionately devoted to the turf, and was a constant attendant at the races, her recklessness in betting, and her extravagant purchases of champagne when in luck, winning for her the titles, "The Plunger" and "Wine Kitty."

Finally she came in contact with young James Walden, son of one of the best known horsemen of New York, and himself an ardent devotee of the turf. They formed a partnership and lived together, and when Jimmy Walden came to the Gloucester races "Kitty Marshall," as she was then known, came with him.

Last fall one day Kitty said to her partner:

"Jimmy, I wish you would marry me."

"Why? Ain't things all right as they are now?"

"Yes, but if I was all right I think I could do better."

Jimmy consented, and on September 19, 1891, they were married in Camden by Rev. George W. Finlaw. Like many another Camden marriage it did not improve either man or wife, and it was not long until they began the quarreling which ended in her shooting her 19-year-old husband as he was coming away from the house where he spent a good deal of his time after their disagreements began.

The girl is supposed to be Annie Graham, formerly of Lime Ridge. She was a bright and pretty girl, and about as fast as it is possible to be. A few years ago she appeared in the court here as a witness in an unsavory case, and on the witness stand unblushingly admitted her bad character.

For a time she was quite notorious in this section, and then disappeared, going to the city.

It is said that she had a very narrow escape from conviction in the first degree, which would have been punished by death in the electric chair.

There was new moon at half past four Tuesday afternoon. According to signs, that is an indication of warm weather.

GILBERT-FOX.

Mr. John Gilbert of Philadelphia and Miss Ella Fox of Bloomsburg were married at St. Paul's Church on Thursday April 28 at 12 o'clock noon. No invitations had been issued, but a large number of friends gathered to witness the ceremony which was performed by Rev. W. C. Leverett. The bride and groom entered together, preceded by the ushers, Messrs Charles Ewing, of Philadelphia, Dr. J. C. Reifsnyder, Milton, Frank H. Wilson, Bloomsburg and Geo. W. Brown, Lock Haven. The bride was attired in a very becoming traveling suit. The chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers and potted plants by the young ladies of the Flower Committee of the church.

Some beautiful flowers were received by the bride from the Executive Mansion Washington, D. C.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Gilbert, parents of the bride groom, Misses Sarah and Laura Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Yetter, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henry, Mr. and Mrs John Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sharpless, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rhawn, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Geyer, all of Catawissa, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mudgett, Shamokin, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clayton and Mrs. J. W. Pepper, Philadelphia, Mrs. J. H. Myers, Camden, N.J. Mr. B. F. Brown, Lock Haven.

The bride is one of our most popular young ladies, and she was the recipient of many very handsome gifts in cut glass, silver, china, linen &c.

Mr. Gilbert has a responsible position with the P. R. Railroad Co. and they will reside in Philadelphia.

They left at 2:36 on the D. L. & W. R. R. followed by showers of rice and good wishes. Their tour will include New York and other cities.

"MOVE ON."

Chief of Police Chromis and Policeman William Thomas have inaugurated a movement that will be commended by every order-loving citizen of Bloomsburg. For a long time it has been the custom of men and boys to stand along the fronts of the stores and business places, thus obstructing the entrances and preventing shoppers from looking at the displays of goods in the windows. This has been the case nearly every pleasant evening. Much complaint has been heard, and it is proposed to put a stop to it.

The street corner loafing habit, especially on Sunday nights is also to be broken up. Last Sunday night the crowds were kept shifting from corner to corner, as the order came from the policemen to "move on." Civil and quiet methods will be followed, unless it becomes necessary to do something more emphatic, and in that case arrests will be made and fines imposed. A town ordinance prohibits the congregating of crowds upon the streets.

The Philadelphia & Reading R. R. Co. is grading and leveling for their track that is to cross the D. L. & W. It is expected that a new depot will be erected on the Sloan land on Market street, below the D. L. & W. The crossing will be made 500 feet further west than was at first intended, so as not to interfere with the yard of the Bloomsburg & Sullivan.

A report was started on Saturday night that the P. & R. proposed to put in a frog for the crossing that night, and precautions were taken by the D. L. & W., to prevent it, but it proved a false alarm. The court has made an order under which the crossing can be made, and there is no reason why the P. & R. people should attempt to get across in any other manner, and it is not at all likely that they will do so.

Mrs. Rex. Laycock, wife of John Laycock deceased, died at the residence of her son-in-law Ben. Cowles. Scranton, Monday. She was about 72 years of age. Mrs. Laycock was a resident of Bloomsburg for many years, during which time her husband was proprietor of the American House, now known as the Central Hotel. She had two children, both of whom survive her, James, a resident of Bloomsburg and Mrs. Maggie Cowles of Scranton. The remains were brought to Bloomsburg at 12.05 Wednesday and taken direct to Rosemont Cemetery, accompanied by a number of friends.

Dr. A. L. Turner died at Philadelphia, Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock. The body will be brought to Bloomsburg, and taken to the residence of D. J. Waller Sr., where services will be held this (Friday) afternoon. The Dr. was well known in this place, having owned the Sanitarium for many years, and being a skilled practitioner. It was his purpose to soon return to Bloomsburg and remain here during the rest of his life.

Shot the Brakeman.

A SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY'S QUICK TEMPER MAY RENDER HIM LIABLE FOR MURDER.

ASHLAND, April 23.—Edward Kessler, a boy of 17 years, figured in a shooting affray to-day, which will probably result in his being tried on a charge of wilful murder.

This morning Kessler in company with another boy named Edward Steeley started over the hill with a shotgun, with the intention of practicing shooting pigeons. As they were ascending the hill a Lehigh Valley freight train passed up the road, and Charles Kuhn, one of the brakemen, made a remark, whereupon Kessler raised his gun and fired. Kuhn received the contents of the gun in the face and neck.

The boys fled over the hill, but were captured an hour later and taken to Mt. Carmel, where they were given a hearing. The injured man was removed to his home at Spring Dale, where he is now lying in a critical condition.

Owing to the unfortunate accident to W. R. Ringrose that has completely disabled him, it has been necessary to close the Bloomsburg Steam Laundry until he recovers sufficiently to take charge of the business.

A METAMORPHOSIS

A roaring, blustering beast of March
Set free from out a cloud hung arch
In pallid skies; as dim of dye
And cold as frosted violet's eye.

A lion March that shakes his mane
To fright those steeds of golden rein,
Whose charioteer drives on apace,
With steady splendor, godlike grace.

For sand by sand, and hour by hour,
And day by day, Apollo's power
Repels the dark, encroaching night
With long and longer shafts of light.

The lion halts. His rolling eyes
Are fixed as with a spell's surprise,
For emerald grasses rock and rise
Beneath his feet like lullabies.
The soothing zephyrs charm his ear;
The Psyche butterflies appear
On restless wings aflame, and fain
To search for missing Love again;
The blossom bells are swaying fine
To rhythms of some thought divine.

The lion in the path of Spring
Has couched, and low is listening
To melodies, like waterfalls,
Of choiring birds, whose crystal calls
Make herald's way before her feet
Who comes like Una, pure and sweet,
In bluish haze—her lucent veil
And trailing garments virginal
Of green and white, all blossom wreathed—
The fairest fancy heaven hath breathed
Or earth has crowned. The lion dumb,
With desert vision, sees her come.

Beside him sweeps her fragrant gown;
Her hand is laid like thistledown
Upon his head. Oh, wondrous sight!
His sulphurous mane to fleeces white
As those imparked in yonder blue,
New dipt in Flora's mountain dew,
Has changed; his eyes are mild and calm;
The lion stands confessed—a lamb.

Why Southerners Have Good Voices.

Life in the country, especially in our southern country, where people lived far apart and were employed oftentimes at a considerable distance from one another, and from the houses or homes in which they ate and slept, tended, by exercise in communicating with one another, to strengthen and improve the voices for high and prolonged notes. A wider range to the vocal sounds was constantly afforded and frequently required.

Hallooing, screaming, yelling for one person or another, to their dogs, or at some of their cattle on the plantation, with the accompanying reverberations from hilltops, over valleys and plains, were familiar sounds throughout the farming districts of the south in the days gone by. It used to be said of my father's old negro foreman that he could be distinctly understood a mile or more away.

Hunting, which was enjoyed and indulged in more or less by nearly every citizen of the south, was also conducive to this characteristic development.—Dr. J. Harvie Dew in Century.

Worms Eat Lead Pipes.

In The Gesundheits Ingenieur the fact is communicated by a correspondent that when tracing the leaky places in a lead pipe there was found in one of the leaks a live woodworm with its head protruding in the wall of the piping, the outer opening of the cavity being of oblong form 7 by 4 millimeters, and the inner surface of the same showing fine indentures. That similar cases have occasionally been met with appears to be the case, the fact being stated in one of the best known German text books of technical chemistry that certain woodworms—sirex gigas—perforate sheet lead, the holes produced showing a rough surface, with fine indentures—in one instance holes up to 6½ millimeters diameter being found in sheet lead, the latter affixed to some timber work.

The Fisheries of Lake Superior.

At little Port Arthur alone the figures of the fishing industry for the market are astonishing. In 1888 the fishermen there caught 500,000 pounds of white fish, 360,000 pounds of lake trout, 48,000 pounds of sturgeon, 90,000 pounds of pickerel and 30,000 pounds of other fish, or more than a million pounds in all. They did this with an investment of $3,800 in boats and $10,000 in gill and pound nets. This yield nearly all went to a Chicago packing company, and it is in the main Chicago and Cleveland capital that is controlling the lake's fisheries. —Julian Ralph in Harper's.

A Queen's Collection to Be Seen.

Queen Margharita of Italy has promised the loan of her famous collection of laces for exhibition at the World's fair. It will include the varieties of lace made in the queen's factories by women and will be displayed with the queen's portrait and many old books upon antique lace. Rome has a society now similar to the Woman's exchange, where the artistic work of the contadina is sold, and from which representative work will probably be sent to the exhibition.—Rome Letter.

A Matter of Wages.

"I observe, James," said the Boston employer, "that you say 'eether' and 'neether.' Are you not aware that such is not our pronunciation of those words?"

"It doesn't seem to me," replied the boy from New York despondently, "that you ought to expect me to say 'eyether' and 'nyther' on a salary of sixteen dollars a month."—Chicago Tribune.

Recollections of Oxford.

My not being at a public school has, I have no doubt, strengthened my love of my university and my college. In my time the 'head masters" had not had everything their own way. It was possible to enter Oxford at the age of nineteen—it was nothing wonderful to get a scholarship before eighteen or even earlier still. And to be scholar and fellow of Trinity from 1841 to 1847 was something to be. It was indeed a circle to look back to of which fifty years ago I was chosen a member, a circle of which a man is much to be blamed if he is not wiser and nobler for having been one. But love of the foundation, the feeling of membership, of brotherhood, in an ancient and honorable body, the feeling of full possession in one's college as a home, the feeling of personal nearness to a benefactor of past times, all that gathers round the scholarship that was something worthier than a mere prize, the fellowship that was something worthier than a crammer's wages—all this, I hope, has not even yet utterly vanished, but under the hands of one reforming commission after another, such feelings have undoubtedly greatly weakened in the Oxford to which I have come back.

In the unreformed university, the unreformed college in which I had the happiness to spend my youth, we had time to learn something, because we were not always being taught. We were not kept through our whole time, vexed by examination after examination, examined in this subject one term, in that subject the next term, all ingeniously combined for the better forgetting of one thing before the next was taken in. We had one examination, and a searching one, the successful passing of which could not seem to any but a fool to be the goal of study, but which, by the reading it required, gave a man the best possible start for study in several branches of knowledge.—Edward A. Freeman in Forum.

A Question to Puzzle Over.

He was a "likely" looking Afro-American, and as he boarded the elevated train at Twenty-eighth street attracted no small amount of attention. He betook himself to one of the cross seats, facing the rear of the car. As he settled himself comfortably, one of the two male passengers seated opposite said to his companion in what was evidently intended to be an undertone, but which was nevertheless plainly audible, "Do your people permit colored folks to ride in first class compartments in public conveyances?" What the reply to the question may have been will never be known. As for the occasion of the query, he did not betray by so much as the movement of a muscle or the quiver of an eyelash that he had overheard what had been said.

But just before Bleecker street was reached he straightened himself up and addressed the inquirer. "Dis yere ain't no question of the Fiftyent' 'mendments," he said. "I knows right plain dat me and my race has all de rights ob de white peoples to ride in dese yer keers so long as we got de money and 'haves ourselves. So dat ain't de question. But what I would like to have you gemmens tell is dis, How kin a man be colored when he's born so?"

And as he stalked out of the car the passengers all looked at one another and wondered if they had been given a new problem in socio-political economy to puzzle over.—New York Times.

Where "Red Tape" Counts.

Said one of the oldest and most successful legal practitioners of the city bar to one of his rising young students a short time ago: "My dear young fellow, never fail to remember that in the successful career of a lawyer there is no one item so important to his reputation as 'red tape.' You may smile at this remark, but it is as true as Holy Writ, and the proper use of it in binding up a legal document has saved many a court paper from being handed back for perfection or revision to its legal sponsor. In earlier life I practiced in the court of one of the most particular judges in the commonwealth. I presented, as I believed, a well prepared report which I asked for confirmation, and to my surprise the judge unfolding it and looking it over found a hundred and one faults and directed me to prepare another one, 'but in better form,' as he said. I was utterly nonplussed.

"My time was so limited it was utterly impossible. An idea struck me. That night in my office I put on a showy outside wrapper, with a hand indorsement of the title, with the most liberal supply of the widest red tape that I could find in graceful bows. The next morning I nervously presented it again. The judge received it smiling, adding: 'That is the correct way all papers for the court should be drawn up.' There's nothing like red tape."—Philadelphia Press.

The Governor's Quills.

The governor of this commonwealth signs every bill with a quill. This isn't because he is fonder of that particular kind of pen, but it is rather in obedience to a well established custom that has obtained with the chief magistrates of the last decade. There are always a few members of the legislature that have the collector's passion, and requests are regularly received by Private Secretary Roads from lawmakers and others for pens that the governor has used for signing bills. Accordingly dozens of these quills are purchased ever so often, and the governor makes his signature each time with a new pen, which is carefully preserved and set aside for the next quill hunter that calls.—Boston Globe.

Isinglass.

It is said that the manifestly corrupted word, "isinglass," owes its change from a foreign to its English dress to the popular fancy, which, finding the Dutch term, "huizenblas" (sturgeon bladder), meaningless in English, quietly changed it into "isinglass" and secured its easy remembrance from association with the "icing" purposes for which it is used and the "glassy" appearance it presents. —Chambers' Journal.

WHAT TO EAT

is a difficult problem with many people because but few articles of food agree with them. The doctor says and the result is unpalatable food. The reason the physician objects to grease is because lard is the article most used, and every physician knows that hog lard in any shape is unhealthy and indigestible.

Every one interested in pure and healthful food hails with joy the new product which is composed of pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet—nothing else—not even salt. It is better than either lard or butter for all cooking purposes, and one pound of Cottolene will do as much as two pounds of lard or butter, and it costs less than either.

Every housekeeper that tries Cottolene will find in it just what she wants.

The Danville Asylum.

Anything pertaining to the management or affairs connected with the hospital for the insane located at Danville, is of interest to citizens of this county. The institution is at present over crowded, no less than three hundred patients being there in excess of the place for comfortable and safe handling. This fact led the trustees to appoint a committee of the board, consisting of Dr. Hyatt, of Lewisburg, Dr Harvey, of Wilkes-Barre, and Dr. Detwiler, of Williamsport, to meet the board of public charities at an early date, and make arrangements by which its crowded wards could be relieved.

He said. "My love I am sorry to dissappoint you about the picnic, but my trotter has a lame foot." That's nothing! We've got plenty of Salvation Oil.

The Detroit Free Press Fiend has been punning on Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. His is only gratitude, for all thinking men know its merits.—(Exch.)

Where Rosewood Gets Its Name.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Many people suppose that rosewood takes its name from its color, but this is a mistake. Rosewood is not red, nor yellow, but almost black. Its name comes from the fact that when first cut it exhales a perfume similar to that of the rose, and, although the dried rosewood of commerce retains no trace of this early perfume, the name lingers as a relic of the early history of the wood.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder.—E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

Doctors may differ in opinion as to the cause of that feeling of languor and fatigue so prevalent in the spring; but all agree as to what is the best remedy for it namely, Ayer's Sarsaparilla; it makes the weak strong, and effectually removes that tired feeling.

The surest way to win the love of people is to become lovable.

"There are millions in it" said the dealer when asked about Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 c.

For some time passed I've been a rheumatic. I recently tried Salvation Oil which gave me almost instant relief. I sincerely recommend it. JAMES GORDON, Baltimore, Md

Patches for Kid Gloves.

From the St Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Kid gloves will rip despite our best efforts to keep them in good condition," said an exquisite young man at the Southern last night. "But we have at last learned how to mend them. Instead of sewing up the rent, as formerly, we now take a small piece of court plaster or surgeon's plaster (the latter is the better,) turn the glove wrong side out and neatly apply the plaster over the rent or rip, first having drawn the rent part of the glove nicely together."

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1892.

Ex-senator W. W. Hart of Williamsport has been appointed Master in the case of Arnot against the Philadelphia and Reading R. R. Co. and others, concerning the deal.

William Astor, of New York, one of the richest men in America, died suddenly in a hotel in Paris on Tuesday. He was the father of Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton.

The Republican State Convention at Harrisburg last week nominated Judge John Dean of Blair county for Supreme Judge, and William Lilly for congressmen at-large and Alex. McDonell.

Another vessel sailed from Philadelphia Saturday last, laden with provisions for the starving people of Russia. There has now been three years of famine, and no prospect for its abatement. Provisions must be furnished them until they can be able to move into some other country. Their land has become impoverished for want of fertilization, and it will be a long time before its fertility can be restored.

The State Supreme Court has decided a case from Montgomery county in which an interesting point was involved. Supervisor Thomas, of Upper Merion, put in a bill for the use of his horse and carriage during his term of office in driving over the district while road mending or on business of the office. The township refused to pay this and the plaintiff brought suit. The Montgomery county court gave him a verdict; the township appealed, but the Supreme Court affirms the lower tribunal in quashing the appeal. So the township must pay the Supervisor's bill.

L. E. Klotz, a resident of Mauch Chunk, and the only son of ex-congressman Robert Klotz who represented this district for two terms, was killed last Sunday night while going home from a hotel at Glen Onoko.

He spent the evening at the hotel and started for town at 9 o'clock by way of the mountain in the rear of the hotel. After leaving the hotel a short distance he slipped, fell, and rolled down the mountain side several hundred feet. He was instantly killed.

The deceased graduated from Lehigh University in 1872 in civil engineering. After following the profession for several years he made a tour through Europe and after his return entered the banking business with his father.

This will be an unusually interesting year in politics. The two great political parties will select their best men; the contest will be waged with great earnestness. Every voter should acquaint himself with the men and policy of both parties. The campaign will be one of education. We should like to see the young men of this town organize themselves into an Independent Democratic club. No kickers should be permitted to join, or to have any influence in its organization. The young men should be the active workers, and the older heads give counsel. The democratic party suffer more defeats from lack of organization than any other cause. Let the young men come to the front of the battle.

From present appearances Ex-president Cleveland will probably have three-fourths of the delegates pledged to him at the Chicago Convention. If it should so happen that Senator Hill, in one of his peculiarly original and forcible speeches would present the name of the Ex president, the last hope of the republicans would be abandoned, and the mere fun of counting the vote would remain to make Grover Cleveland again the occupant of the White House for four years. The republicans are fostering the vain hope of dissentions in New York between the Hill and Cleveland men, but the indications now point to the election of Cleveland even without the vote of New York But our neighboring state does not want to be on the outside, and when the convention meets will no doubt have a surprise that will blast the last hope of the republicans.

As a tree flourishes in proportion to the richness of the soil, so the human body thrives in accordance with the quality of its blood. Hence the necessity of keeping the vital fluid rich and pure with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the best blood medicine you can find.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, April 25, 1892.

Mr. Harrison's visit to New York this week, while ostensibly for the purpose of attending the laying of the corner stone of the Grant monument, is in reality for the purpose of settling the question of his candidacy for a renomination. He will carry with him the two men who were taken into the cabinet solely to bring about his renomination—Secretaries Foster and Elkins—and while there these political manipulators will meet the republican bosses of New York and other States and try to make bargains with them. Secretary Foster has just returned from Ohio, where he went to lay Harrison wires, and there is reason for believing, although he maintains to the contrary, that he found the anti-Harrison sentiment too strong for him, and that the Ohio delegation will go to Minneapolis uninstructed. With such states as Pennsylvania and Ohio sending uninstructed delegations, it becomes necessary for Mr. Harrison to capture the New York delegation or throw up the sponge.

Senator Teller is doing all he knows how to do to make himself disagreeable to the administration. Not satisfied with charging Mr. Harrison with having been in league with the money power lobby to defeat the free coinage bill in the House, he knocked the bottom out of a very nice little sheme which Mr. Harrison has been concocting for electioneering purposes by offering a resolution, which was adopted by the Senate, calling upon the President for information as to what steps have been taken toward the holding of an international monetary conference, and for copies of all correspondence with governments invited to participate therein. Senator Sherman made a hole for Mr. Harrison to crawl out by amending the resolution by adding "if not incompatible with the public interests", but Mr. Teller intimates that Mr. Harrison would better not try to make use of it. It is known that Mr. Harrison has had secret agents at work for months trying to get the European government to agree to take part in such a conference, and it is said that they have succeeded in getting a number of them to do so, and that the conference is to be held when it will do the republican party the most good—just before the election, when all sorts of promises can be made as to what it will do.

Senator Palmer has announced himself a candidate for the Presidential nomination, and he says he will endeavor to secure the support of the entire Illinois delegation.

Senator Call has offered a resolution which, if adopted and carried out, would get together some very valuable information. It provides for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the present capitalization and the difference between such capitalization and their actual cost; their gross and net receipts; number of compensation of employes, amount of bonded indebtedness and capital and stock; and a list of stockholders and bondholders, giving their residences.

The Senate, in its usual ponderous way, is discussing the House Chinese exclusion bill.

The republicans are trying hard to make party capital out of the democratic vote by which Representative Rockwell, of New York, was retained in his seat, notwithstanding the report of a majority of the Elections committee in favor of the contestant. Representaiive McMillin, of Tennesee, voiced the general democratic as well as the common sense view when he said of it: "I cannot see how it can affect the democratic party. It was a case upon which men could honestly differ and upon which they did differ. Mr. Rockwell had the advantage of the skill with which his case was presented, and there were many minds that were not made up until the final presentation of the case. The very length of the debate and the perfect freedom which marked it was sufficient to show the country that the democratic House was willing to listen to every phase of the case."

Some gossip has been caused by the report that Mr. Blaine was very brusque in his refusal of the invitation to accompany Mr. Harrison and the administration party which is to go to New York tomorrow evening to take part in laying the corner stone of the Grant monument, on Wednesday. Mr. Blaine is at least consistent; there was never any love displayed by him for General Grant in his life time, and he declines to make a pretense of it over his grave.

Senator Vorhees says of the platform adopted by the Indiana democratic convention: "It is a sound platform, embracing tariff reform and a currency of gold and silver and legal tender paper (greenbacks) on an equality with each other. This is the old democratic platform, and no new departure toward Wall street." He adds that the State ticket is a splendid one, with a practical farmer at its head, and that it is certain to sweep the State into the democratic column this year.

The seed is planted when you feel "run-down" and "used-up." Malarial, typhoid or bilious fevers spring from it—all sorts of diseases. Don't take any risk. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery invigorates the system and repels disease. It starts the torpid liver into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and restores health and vigor. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, and builds up flesh and strength. For all diseases that come from a disordered liver and impure blood, skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, it's the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure in every case, you have your money back.

You pay only for the good you get.

The worst cases yield to the mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. That's why the proprietors can, and do, promise to pay $500 for a case of Catarrh in the Head which they cannot cure.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is Peculiar to Itself

Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine,

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

TIMELY TOPICS

The public has been sufficiently nauseated by the details of the miserable Drayton-Borrowe affair, that has occupied so many columns of the daily papers for weeks past. The final denouement of this tragic comedy took place a few days ago in Belgium. The story in brief is this:

Hallett Borrowe, a young blood of New York, became infatuated with Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton, daughter of William Astor of New York, and one of the "400." He followed her to Europe, and there continued his attentions until it resulted in Mr. Drayton leaving his wife, and challenging Borrowe to fight a duel. On some pretext which his seconds claimed came within "the code," Borrowe declined the challenge, and Drayton posted him in the London clubs and elsewhere, as a cur and coward Then Drayton sailed for America on the steamer Majestic, and Borrowe at the last moment took passage on the same ship, presumably to show that he was not afraid of Drayton. During their passage the whole affair was given to the world and all the correspondence on the matter was published.

Borrowe was generally snubbed, and in order to regain his reputation for bravery he got into a quarrel with Fox, one of his seconds, charging him with having published the letters without authority, and a duel was arranged, which was fought in Belgium. Two shots were fired but no one was hurt. It is said now that the bullets were made of plumbago, and that the whole affair was a farce gotten up to reestablish Borrowe's reputation. It has had just the opposite effect and he and Fox are now the laughing stock of London. It was announced that Mrs. Drayton, whose reputation for chastity has suffered greatly, would return to New York and resume her position in society, but the sudden death of her father in Paris on Tuesday will postpone this for another season. Meanwhile Mr. Drayton is following his profession quietly in New York.

This is the story in brief that has stirred New York society to the core. Barrowe has attained a notoriety that he would not otherwise have had, and now that he is in Europe, let us hope that he will remain there, and that the miserable story will be dropped, and the public given a rest.

Many people are troubled with what may be termed grave-horror. Whenever they contemplate death they are filled with terror at the thought of being put in the grave. It is impossible to fully realize all the conditions of death while in a state of being. While all our sensibilities are in operation, we cannot make ourselves believe that a time will come when the earthly tenement of the spirit will be merely a lump of clay, inanimate, dead. We contemplate the grave with the same feeling that we contemplate an imprisonment in a close and narrow cell, where we must smother and die.

Occasional sensational stories about people having been buried alive have added to the horrors of death, and everybody has the same dread about such an occurrence. Of all such stories, not one in ten thousand is true, and investigation has generally proven the report a hoax gotten up by some sensational reporter.

There was a time in the existence of every one of us, when, though we lived and breathed, we were unconscious of existing. What then is to be feared, after the spirit has flown, and the body is dead! Modern science has made the signs of death so sure that it is almost impossible for one to be buried alive. The art of the undertaker has made it absolutely certain that after one has passed through his hands he is dead beyond a doubt. We must look upon death as a release of the soul from its earthly tabernacle. The confinement of the body in the grave is merely the return of dust to dust from whence it came.

Well Said, It Was an Insult to Justice, As Every Honest Man Knows.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.,
April 27th, 1892

Messrs. Editors:

Two weeks ago Mr. Allen wrote an article in your paper on the Poor Director fight to which Mr. Larish makes a very feeble reply and the Sentinel gang adds that Mr. A. never wrote the article. Since last week's paper was printed, however, Mr. Allen has visited ("paid them a call as it were,") all of the gang connected with the paper except the editor in chief, who is sick in bed, and they each one and all deny the authorship of the editorial. Now who did write it, or who lied, when they did write it? Mr. Larish says that Krickbaum never spoke to him on the subject of the appointments of the Poor Board but once, and that on March 12th, and then only told him to do what was right in the matter. Does Mr. Larish think for one moment, that he can make the people of the Poor District believe that Krickbaum ever uttered such words as these? Does Mr. Larish think that he can make the people believe that Krickbaum would spend a good part of the day in his (Larish's) company on the day the appointments was made, without saying a word on this subject, Were they not together in the Exchange Hotel parlor? Did they not go to the bank together, and if so what did they go there for? I ask again does Mr. Larish believe that the people of the Poor District would think of believing such an assertion as this? Will Mr. Larish dare deny that he along with a lot of others was invited up to Perry's to partake of a large feast and have a good time at Krickbaum's expense just a week or so before these appointments were made, what was that for I ask? Why did Mr. Larish ridicule Mr. Grotz's letter that was written just before the election, and make light of the idea of Grotz writing him a letter when he knew he was fighting him all the time, why did Larish say time and time again that he would not vote for Grotz or Kleim either one under any circumstances, what was the cause of him changing his mind I ask? I have been told that some of Larish's neighbors gave him the reputation of being an honest man, but does the above sound like honesty, or the following sound like honesty? Mr. Larish told me on the Saturday preceding the day the appointments were made and while we were standing in front of Cronin's Harness shop, that there was no applicant for the office of Secretary except myself and Mr. Terwilliger from Light-Street and that Mr. Terwilliger did not stand a ghost of a show. After talking not over two minutes he walked down to Lowenberg's store and told Mr. Townsend that Mr. Kleim was a candidate. I repeat does that sound like honesty? Mr. Larish says in his letter in the Sentinel that Krickbaum only told him to do what was right and did not try to influence him on the subject.

Now it is my opinion that Mr. Larish had better see K. again either in the Bank or in the Hotel and fix their story up so they will correspond, for every time that Krickbaum gets drunk (and that is quite often now days) he says and says it very emphatically that it was him that caused the defeat of Mercer. Now who lies, K. or L. K also says that he wants it distinctly understood that he does not want the committee men from Bloomsburg to manipulate the Poor Board against his interests. Does he own the whole Poor district I wonder or does he only own a few Fridays that will do his bidding for a remuneration of some kind? Mr. Larish says that he done what he honestly thinks was right when he voted for Mr. Grotz for Treasurer and Kleim for Secretary. Is Mr. Larish such a blockhead as to think that people will declare him right in voting for men who not only worked against him on the day of the election but for six weeks previous to the election. Right, why Mr. Larish does not even know the meaning of right if he calls this right. I defy Mr. Larish to put his finger on any forty men of Sugarloaf Twp., that done half as much for his election as I done myself, and yet he claims that he voted for Kleim because somebody up there wanted him to, and calls it right. I am only sorry that I did not stay in my store and let the Bolter from the west ward beat Larish as he surely would have done and then I would have known more than a week before the appointments were made that I had no chance for Larish's vote.

DR. KILMER & Co., BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

The above is a good likeness of Mr. Geo. C. Cradick engraved from a photo. taken a short time ago and sent to Dr. Kilmer & Co., with his letter and package of gravel he speaks about, which was dissolved and expelled after using three bottles of Swamp-Root. The following is Mr. Cradick's unsolicited account of his distressing and painful case.

Gosport, Ind., Jan. 18th, 1892.

DR. KILMER & CO., BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—I do not know how to express my heartfelt thanks to you for the benefit I have received from using your Swamp Root Kidney Liver and Bladder Cure. I am now 63 years old, and have suffered almost death for about three years. I had given up to die, but as I profess to be a Christian man and a great believer in the prayer of the righteous, I prayed that God would send something that would prolong my life, and I feel thankful to him and you for the means that was sent. May God spare your life many years yet that you may hear the great good that your medicine is doing. On the 20th day of August, 1891, Mr. Frank Lawson your agent at Spencer persuaded me to take a bottle on trial. I have taken three bottles and it has brought out of my bladder lime or gravel, which I have saved in quantity the size of a goose egg and I now feel like a new man. May God bless you and your medicine.

I remain your humble servant,
Box 273. GEORGE C. CRADICK.

SECOND LETTER.

DEAR DOCTOR:—I take great pleasure in answering your letter which I received to-day. You say "you would like to publish my testimonial in your Guide to Health for a while". I have no objections at all for I want to do all in my power for afflicted humanity. I send by this mail a lot of the Gravel (about one half of what I saved) that the Swamp-Root dissolved and expelled from my bladder.

Two years ago last Sept. I was taken with pain almost all over me, my head and back, my legs and feet became cold, would get sick at my stomach and vomit often, suffering a great deal from chills and at times these were so severe that I thought I would freeze to death. The condition of my urine was not so bad through the day, but during the night, at times, I had to get up every hour, and often every half hour.

Would urinate sometimes a gallon a night, then it seemed my kidneys and back would kill me. I had been troubled with constipation for many years, but since using your Swamp-Root have been better than for a long time. The medicine has helped my appetite wonderfully and it seems as though I could not eat enough.

I live about six miles in the country from Gosport. I was born and raised here, and have been a member of the M. E. Church for forty-two years.

Pardon me for writing so much for I feel that I would never get through praising your great remedy for Kidney, Liver and Bladder troubles.

Your true friend,

Geo. C. Cradick

Those who try Swamp-Root have generally first employed the family physician, or used all the prescriptions within their reach without benefit. As a last resort, when their case has become chronic, the symptoms complicated and their constitution run down, then they take this remedy, and it is just such cases and cures as the one above that have made Swamp-Root famous and given it a world-wide reputation.

A Philosophical Family.

Amelia has pimples, and sores in the head,
From humors internal her nose has grown red;
She's a boil on her neck that is big as a bell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

And pa has dyspepsia, malaria and gout,
His hands with salt-rheum are all broken out;
He is prone to rheumatics that make his legs swell,
But in other respects he is doing quite well.

And ma has night-sweats and a troublesome cough,
That all of our doctors can't seem to drive off;
She wakes every night and coughs quite a spell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

There is nothing like philosopy to help one bear the ills of life, but in the case of this family what is most needed is a good supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It would cleanse Amelia's bad blood, cure pa's ailments, and check ma's cough. The "Golden Medical Discovery," by its action on the liver, cleanses the system of impurities. It cures humors, boils, scrofula, salt-rheum. erysipelas, and all kinds of sores and swellings. The only guaranteed blood purifier.

Lamp-chimneys cost so little that we let them go on breaking. We go on buying and grumbling.

What should we do?

Get Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass;" they are made of tough glass, tough against heat; they do not break in use; they do from accident.

They are fine, well made, exact; they fit the lamps they are made for; stand upright; the shade is right; they make a right draught for light; they are uniform. Both bear a label for your protection. Look for it.

Be willing to pay a nickel more and stop this constant expense and annoyance.

A DIPLOMATIC CUL DE SAC.

Who Is the American Author of the Behring Sea Correspondence?

We wonder who is the responsible author, so far as this government is concerned, of the treaty of arbitration for the settlement of the Behring sea dispute. Whoever the author may be, he has committed a colossal blunder.

Nothing in the future is more certain than that every one of the five points submitted to arbitration by the terms of the treaty would be decided against us. The first four points concern the claim to exclusive jurisdiction over an area of open ocean considerably larger than the Mediterranean sea, a claim preposterous according to all accepted ideas of international law. Does anybody in his senses suppose for an instant that arbitrators named by France, Italy and Sweden will hold that Behring sea is a closed sea subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States? The fifth point is in regard to our property rights in the seals themselves and our right to claim the animals wherever in the watery waste they may be found. Does any sane person suppose for an instant than an international tribunal will decide for our convenience that the Alaska fur seals are not feræ naturæ? And yet unless one or the other of these improbable, nay, impossible decisions is rendered, the whole negotiation, the treaty and the arbitration will count for nothing toward the main object in view, namely, the protection of the seals.—New York Sun.

What This Congress Will Save.

Mr. Dockery, of Missouri, states that in the two sessions of the present congress the appropriations will be reduced about $100,000,000.

This general statement must be taken on the faith of Mr. Dockery's reputation for accuracy, which is very high. It seems to be certain, however, that aside from the river and harbor bill there will be a saving this year of more than $30,000,000, and it is expected that at least $1,000,000 will be saved on the river and harbor bill.

The task of saving money after the legislation of the last congress was very difficult. The permanent appropriations had been increased for the purpose of preventing retrenchment. If the Democratic majority succeeds, therefore, in cutting down appropriations in the first session, outside of the river and harbor bill, by $30,000,000, it is a great triumph so far as it goes. It is a pity that the cutting should not go further and that more money should not be saved in the annual logrolling scheme.—New York World.

Jingo Diplomacy "Comes High."

There may be some question as to the net results of our ultimatum to Chili, but there is no doubt of the cost of that bit of jingo diplomacy. Indications point to the speedy collapse of the bureau of American republics, which was started in Washington as an annex to reciprocity. As there is very little reciprocity outside of the Pan-American article, and as that has taken fright early in its career on account of the domineering tone of the great American republic, the dream of a continental zollverein appears to be passing away with the winter snows.—Philadelphia Record.

Colored Voters Know Their Friends.

MILLS AS SENATOR.

A Deserved Tribute to the Distinguished Texan.

Mr. Mills was sworn as a senator on his sixtieth birthday.

His elevation to this dignity is simply the due recognition and reward of long and most admirable service. He has been called by his state to be its representative because his state has recognized him as its fittest man for the high function. He has not descended to any of the arts of solicitation. He has not left his place to electioneer. He has made no bargains, concealed no opinions and manipulated no caucuses.

His election is gratifying in that it indicates the existence of a higher element in politics, a sentiment which rewards courage and manly devotion to principle. It contradicts the assumption which has latterly been prevalent, that advancement in political life must be won in unworthy ways and sought as a personal achievement.

Mr. Mills is a man of unusual ability and unusual industry. The history of his career has been a history of hard work for those ends to which his convictions pointed as best for the country and most in accord with the true principles of Democratic government. The fact that a great state has appreciated his endeavors and has rewarded them with the highest confidence a state can repose in any individual is a gratifying proof of the survival of principle in our political life.—New York World.

Some Sound, Sugary Sense.

The formation of the Sugar trust admonishes congress of the duty of putting refined sugar on the free list, and thus protecting American consumers from the combination. Under the duty of a half cent a pound very little refined sugar is imported; but this is not because of the duty, but because of the fact that with free raw material American refiners are able to compete with Europeans in both the home and foreign markets. During the last year exports of refined sugar amounted in value to upward of $6,000,000. This is not so large an exportation compared with that of a few years ago, before the trust was organized and when there was a drawback of 90 per cent. of the duty. But the exportation is sufficient to show that with free raw sugar the refiners have no need of any protective duty. American consumers, however, have need of protection against them.—Philadelphia Record.

That Delectable Sugar Bounty.

A statement prepared by the commissioner of internal revenue in regard to sugar bounty shows that 2,523 claims for bounty, amounting to $6,914,654, have been received, and that 925 claims, amounting to $2,925,020, have been paid. The payments were as follows: On cane sugar, $2,715,747; on beet sugar, $215,406, and on sorghum, $20,800. The bounty on cane sugar was distributed as follows: Louisiana, $2,580,917; Texas, $129,627; Florida, $5,204. The beet sugar bounty was distributed as follows: Nebraska, $53,974; California, $139,534; Utah, $21,898.

The Beauties of Protection.

There are eleven nail mills in Massachusetts. Nine of them are idle; the remaining two are run without profit and must reduce wages or stop. The duties of $6.72 per ton on scrap and of seventy-five cents per ton on coal rob these works of all chance of profit and send their discharged employees to swell the ranks of the unemployed, who find themselves the victims of a policy established ostensibly for their benefit.—Exchange.

An Edifying Spectacle.

It is an instructive circumstance for the consideration of a political philosopher, that the statesmen who are loudest in accusing the Democrats at Albany of having got a member of the legislature more than they are entitled to, are those who were themselves engaged only a few years ago in a successful attempt to steal the presidency of the United States.—New York Sun.

They Will Get Both Ends.

The interminable revenue collectors of the Republican party can organize all the tariff debating clubs they please. There is a tariff debating club already organized in this country, of which the interminable revenue collectors will receive both the hot end of the debate and the butt end of the club. No initiation fees, no dues.—St. Louis Republic.

No Opera Bouffe Statesmanship Wanted.

AMES' UPHILL STRUGGLE.

He Forgets That Bounties, Not Wisdom, Dominate the Republican Party.

Ex-Governor Ames, of Massachusetts, proposes to demonstrate to the Republican party of his state that it is not in favor of the McKinley tariff act. The state committee has refused to permit him to go to the national conventions as delegate at large because he is "not sound on the tariff question."

Mr. Ames is certainly not to be classed as a free trader, except, of course, for campaign purposes. Being a manufacturer of iron shovels and other implements he wants free ore, although he is willing to pay "ample" but not "prohibitive" duties on pig iron. For a long time Mr. Ames has been enjoying the benefit of a protective duty on his products, a duty sufficiently large to enable him to pay duties on all his raw materials and to sell his shovels to foreigners for less than he charged the high taxed people of his native land.

For some reason Mr. Ames has decided that he wants the cost of production decreased, and that therefore he ought to have free ore. In this he is at agreement with the hundred or more ironmasters of Massachusetts who petitioned congress for this small favor when the McKinley bill was pending.

Mr. Ames now proposes to go into the state convention as a candidate for the place which the state committee has denied him. He says that he intends to "ascertain how large a proportion of the delegates agree" with his tariff views. He thinks that the Republican party will become very small if its managers drive from it every one who "does not believe in every line of the McKinley bill."

The people demonstrated that Mr. Ames is right in respect to the popularity of the McKinley act at the last congressional elections, when the Republicans found themselves in a minority of 1,300,000. But he is wrong if he thinks that he can make any impression on the Republican leaders. He happens just now to be in the wise minority of manufacturers, but he occupies a hostile attitude toward the party organization, for he represents in a small way the outcry raised against the tariff by the taxed and dissatisfied consumer. The Republican leaders know that this sort of disintegration of the protected interests must be checked at its outset. If wisdom should once prevail among protected manufacturers and the tariff syndicate should go to pieces their occupation would be gone, for their political existence depends upon the bounty fed manufacturers, whose abundant contributions to campaign funds are as the breath of life to Republican nostrils.—New York World.

A Governor in Ward Politics.

A commentary on the character of the man they have now for governor of Connecticut may be found in the fact that he went into a Republican caucus in Hartford the other night and nominated a candidate for mayor who had been opposed as unfit for the place by the leading Republican paper of that city, and who was defeated when the vote was taken by a majority of more than two to one. The spectacle of a governor leading a faction in a partisan caucus for any purpose is hardly in accordance with New England ideas of the dignity of that office.—Boston Herald.

The Decision Will Be Reversed.

The question raised by the so called reciprocity proclamation is whether congress may confer upon the president a legislative power and discretion which he does not derive directly from the constitution. The supreme court has never held that congress can thus enlarge the president's power as a ruler. The court has upheld the reciprocity provision by squarely denying the indisputable fact that such a power is thereby conferred. The fact remains all the same, and some day the supreme court will reverse its decision.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Robbing Peter to Pay Paul.

According to the gleeful organs the McKinley law has turned Old World workingmen out to starve. We must be sending them flour and grain to avert the dreadful calamity. It would seem quite as well for all concerned if these workingmen were able to buy our farmers' grain. The policy of starving one's customers is not a large and wise one.—Toledo Bee.

And Why Not?

Commissioner Raum denies everything and expresses disapproval of the manner of the investigation. The halter begins to draw, and it may not be long until Mr. Raum may be expressing an adverse opinion of the law which authorizes an investigation at all.—New York Advertiser.

The People Rule, After All.

Tom Reed's decisions have been affirmed by the United States supreme court, but fortunately the case stands remanded to the people for a rehearing.—St. Louis Republic.

Elkins' Interests Demand It.

Secretary Elkins' interest in the seal monopoly demands that Mr. Harrison should stand firm in everything pertaining to the Behring seals.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A DESPERATE FIGHT.

A MODERN VERSION OF AN OLD STORY ABOUT COLUMBUS.

An Account of the Days When Christopher Columbus Played the Role of a Pirate—How He Came to Settle in Lisbon—A Savage Battle at Sea.

It is one of those tales that illustrate the manners of this cruel age. The pirates had long been the scourge of the honest Venetian traders. Sometimes they would disguise themselves as merchantmen trading peacefully to Candia for wine, and then throwing off their disguises, would prey upon all around them. No mercy was shown in these fearful contests. Between the sea robbers and the merchants there was a lasting and deadly hostility. It was to the pirate class that the Columbi belonged, and of all the corsairs of the day they were the most renowned. The elder Columbus had apparently lain in wait in vain for the rich fleet that sailed yearly to the north. But he had a son, known as Columbus Junior, who followed the same profession and whose true name was Nicolo Griego, or Nicholas the Greek. He at last succeeded in the project which his father had so long essayed in vain. The prize was a tempting one to the bold buccaneers. The Flanders galleys with their freight were valued at 200,000 ducats—perhaps $2,000,000—and would have proved an immense fortune to the captors could they have retained the spoil.

In 1485 the galleys were equipped with unusual care. We have the decree of the senate under which they set sail. The Doge Giovanni Moncenigo appoints the noble Bartolomeo Minio captain, with a salary of 600 ducats. Four great galleys are provided, and to each captain a bounty of 3,500 golden ducats is promised upon their safe return to Venice. This money was to be paid out of the tax on the Jews, and calls up anew Shakespeare's unreal picture; it is plain that the merchants of Venice were the true Shylocks of the time. A medical man was assigned to the fleet; his salary was only nine ducats a month.

Minute rules are given for the conduct of the expedition. The freight is to be paid to the state. No deckloads of tin or pewter ware are allowed, no currants nor molasses are to be stored in the hold. Two galleys were to go to London or the English ports, the rest to Sluys or Bruges. On their passage they might touch at Malaga and other ports in Spain; on their return a ship was detached to trade with the Mohammedans along the Barbary shore. The Venetians were too keen traders not to find profitable markets even in the lands of the infidel.

The Columbi or the Griegos were at last to seize their prize. They watched with seven ships—powerful, no doubt, and well equipped—off the Spanish coast to intercept the fleet of Bartolomeo Minio. The commander of the pirates was Nicolo Griego, the son, we are told, of the elder Columbus. His father had disappeared from sight. But with him in the pirate ships was another Columbus, the future discoverer and admiral of the Indies. In his "Life" Fernando Columbus boasts of his father's share in this famous engagement—famous because it led to the settlement of Columbus at Lisbon, his marriage and his future exploits.

He was now a man of at least fifty, hardened by thirty-six years of ceaseless adventure. What position he held in the pirate fleet, whether as commander or seaman, his son does not tell. We only know that he served under his relative, Columbus or Griego, and that he fought with desperate energy in the famous sea fight of Cape St. Vincent.

The corsairs, or Columbi, approached their prey in the evening. They waited all night on the still Atlantic, and in the morning rushed upon the Venetians. It was seven, perhaps eight, ships against four. The galleys were heavy laden and unmanageable compared to their swift assailants. The Columbi had evidently resolved to make sure of their prey. They sailed under the French flag, and may have been fitted out in Genoa. It was the custom of the pirates, it seems, to assume false colors. But dreadful was the contest and fierce the fight that raged all day, as Columbus had told his son, on the tranquil sea—the scene, nearly four centuries later, of the battle of St. Vincent—and his narrative is confirmed by the Venetian archives. The four great galleys under Bartolomeo Minio defended themselves with unfailing courage.

From the first to the twentieth hour they beat off their savage assailants. The ships grappled with each other and fought hand to hand. They used, we are told, artificial fire, and the pirates fastened their ships to the galleys by hooks and iron chains. Then, no doubt, they boarded and were at last successful. And then Fernando Colon relates the romantic incident that led, he thinks, to the discovery of a new world. The ship in which his father fought was lashed by chains and hooks to a great Venetian galley. The Venetians seem to have set Columbus' ship on fire. The flames consumed both vessels. The only resource left to the survivors was to leap into the sea.

Columbus, an excellent swimmer, seized an oar that floated near him, and partly resting on it and partly swimming, sustained himself in the water. He knew that he was about six miles from the land, the coast of Portugal, and made his way toward it. Wearied, half inanimate, he was dashed upon the shore. He had much difficulty in reviving himself. But he was near Lisbon and made his way, a shipwrecked, penniless seaman, to the Portuguese capital.—Eugene Lawrence in Harper's.

Eight Lives Lost.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR IN SCHUYLKILL COUNTY.

Another horror to the many hundreds of mine accidents that have occurred in mining regions was added last week by the flooding of part of the workings of the Lytle Coal company's colliery, seven miles from Minersville. By this accident eight men have lost their lives, while those of two others are in jeopardy. Six of these are Italians and the others Americans. The Italians, under Contractor Carsvelli, were engaged in driving a gangway 175 feet in front of the main slope which is down 150 yards. Two others, named John Zerbe, of Llewellyn, and James Dolbin, of Forestville, experienced miners, were engaged at timbering. These are the ones drowned. Besides these two others, named John Buggy and William Bell, who were inside at the time and first tried to rescue their companions, and then seeing this was futile, endeavored to release the mules, about ten in number, were caught by the water and fled to a high part of the gangway, where they were imprisoned in what is called the saddle of the vein. On hearing this, rescuing parties were at once put at work cutting a passageway to the intervening barrier to rescue them from a higher level.

The water that caused the calamity came in from an old working shaft, notwithstanding the operators had taken every precaution to prevent such an accident by constantly keeping drill holes driven ahead to a distance of 120 feet. The water came through chute No. 4 where two men had been working durthe day, and who quit at 3 o'clock because it was too wet to work. An hour after they went home the water broke in and caught the men working in the vicinity.

ABUNDANCE OF FRUIT.

Every indication points to an abundance of fruit this year, even to exceed the enormous crop of last year. The apricot, the earliest fruit in this section, is now in bloom, showing that the prolonged cold weather has not done any harm. The plum and peach are budding rapidly and the buds found to be in a healthy condition. The mild winter has not affected any of the small fruits.

There are 56 scholars now being examined in the first room of the High School building, compared with 36 last year—a gain of 20. The examinations are being held now, so that those in A division passing a successful examination may prepare for the High School Commencement to be held Wednesday, May 11. The scholars in music are being examined by Prof. Butts of the State Normal School.

Hon. Grant Herring has presented the Fifth street Public School Library with a large collection of valuable Public documents. During the winter Hon. E. M. Tewksbery presented the High School with a simular lot of books. No better place could be selected than the schools for public documents.

C. C. Ransom of Plymouth has been awarded the contract for the building of the large brick block of Moyer and Keller on corner of Main and Iron street.

Among the munificent gifts illustrative of the generosity of American women may be mentioned the $50,000 donation of Mrs. Leland Stanford to the Kindergarten Association of San Francisco, and the same amount given by Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt for the erection of a mission building in New York city.

There is a lady in New York who at present is earning a salary of $5,000 a year teaching fashion how to play a scientific game of whist. Two or three other teachers have all they can do instructing classes in the Ladies' New York club.

CURES

Scrofula, boils, pimples, rheumatism, catarrh, and all other blood diseases.

"There can be no question as to the superiority of Ayer's Sarsaparilla over all other blood-purifiers. If this was not the case, the demand for it, instead of increasing yearly, would have ceased long ago, like so many other blood medicines I could name."—F. L. Nickerson, Druggist, 75 Chelsea st., Charlestown, Mass.

"Two years ago I was troubled with saltrheum. It was all over my body, and nothing the doctors did for me was of any avail. At last I took four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was completely cured. I can sincerely recommend it as a splendid blood-purifier."—J. S. Burt, Upper Keswick, New Brunswick.

"My sister was afflicted with a severe case of

SCROFULA

Our doctor recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla as being the best blood purifier within his experience. We gave her this medicine, and a complete cure was the result."—Wm. O. Jenkins, Deweese, Neb.

"When a boy I was troubled with a blood disease which manifested itself in sores on the legs. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being recommended, I took a number of bottles, and was cured. I have never since that time had a recurrence of the complaint."—J. C. Thompson, Lowell, Mass.

"I was cured of Scrofula by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—John C. Berry, Deerfield, Mo.

Mistakes in the Management of Country Roads.

As a general thing, the country roads on this continent have been so badly located that to build costly pavements upon the present lines, and previously provide elaborate system of drainage, would be a dreadful waste of money. As it is ordinarily beyond the means of the country people to do more than improve the present condition of their roads, this is the task that they should undertake as soon as possible. In beginning such a task, the first step to be taken, in my opinion, is to stop doing that which has generally been the custom in this country—that is, working the roads. Working the roads, as it is usually practised in this country, consists in calling out in each road district a gang of men who "work out" their road tax under an overseer elected by the people. The labor done is worse than thrown away, for it is rare indeed for either the overseer or the men under him to have any clear comprehension of what is needed. Fortunately for the well-being of our roads, these men do not work very hard, but rather choose to regard the few days on the road as a kind of holiday outing, a picnic frolic and a means of getting rid of a certain amount of tax. If they really worked with all their might, they would make the roads almost as unpassable in the summer as they now are in the late winter and early spring. With some kind of a glimmering idea that ditches on each side of a road are good to have, they plough up these ditches, together with the sod that grows down into them, and pile all of this muck in the middle of the road. This material, it may be said, has a most excellent fertilizing value, and if it were put upon the fields instead of in the roads it would amply repay the farmers who carted it away. But in the roads it is a sad and an immediate hinderance to travel. Luckily the friendly spring rains usually wash it back into the ditches, where it stays until there is some more tax to be "worked out." When these rains are not sufficient to wash away these impediments that have been deliberately placed in the roads, the consequences are very dusty roads during all the dry season.

In some neighborhoods a little more ambitious than those generally to be found, they mend the roads by placing gravel and broken stone upon them. Then the overseers say that they are macadamizing the roads. Without thoroughly draining the road-bed, to put either broken stone or gravel upon it is merely a waste of money and labor, and the ambitious neighborhoods so doing prove in the end no wiser than those who cover their roads with muck. But it is within the means of every neighborhood in the United States to materially improve their roads at once—improve them so much that where the traffic is not extremely heavy and continuous, the roads will be in tolerable order nine months in the year, and very much better than at present, even when the frost is coming out of the ground at the beginning of spring. And this can be done in three or four or five years without spending one penny more than is now spent in the hurtful methods mentioned.—Harper's Weekly.
